

Volumes must be sent by June 30, 2019 to:
Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII,
via San Vitale, 114 – 40125 Bologna
or to: segreteria@fscire.it.

Candidates must be presented by the authors themselves and/or third parties, provided that they be registered members of the European Academy of Religion (EuARe), by sending a paper or digital copy of their books published within the last three years, or works that have yet to be published, in any field of religious science.

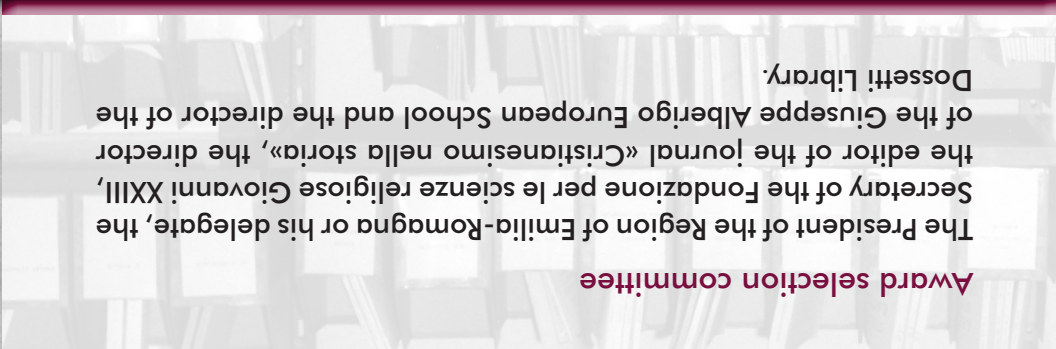

1. PRESENTATION OF CANDIDACY

2. SELECTION PROCESS

- The list of all the works presented will be drawn up by July 20, 2019.
- The EuARe Executive Committee will express a first opinion on the works by September 30, 2019.
- The award selection committee will thereafter identify the three works that have obtained most votes in each category.
- By October 31, 2019, the members of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose will carry out one or more secret ballots until the absolute majority is reached in order to select three finalists and the winner in each category.
The results of the votes will be conveyed in a sealed envelope to the President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna. The Secretary of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII will immediately communicate it to the winners.

Award selection committee
The President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna or his delegate, the Secretary of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII, the editor of the journal «Cristianesimo nella storia», the director of the Giuseppe Alberigo European School and the director of the Dossetti Library.

3. AWARD CONFIRMMENT

CATEGORY A: established scholar (Senior) € 20,000
CATEGORY B: early career scholar under the age of 40 (Junior) € 10,000
The money must be spent on research activity and a report of the expenses, or a programme for the research activity that will use the money, must be sent to the Fondazione per le scienze religiose within six months after receiving the award.
The three finalists in each category will be invited to present a lecture at the annual convention of the European Academy of Religion in 2020, when the President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna or his delegate will confer the awards in a special ceremony.

GIUSEPPE ALBERIGO (1927-2007) was an historian of great magnitude who was able to combine exceptional, exemplary rigour in research and a unique timeliness in the intellectual and theological debate of his time, thereby offering a precious contribution to sowing the seeds of criticism in generations of scholars internationally.

In memory of his fervour and wealth of critical studies, the Region of Emilia-Romagna and the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII, to which Alberigo dedicated 54 years of his life, announce the second edition of the GIUSEPPE ALBERIGO AWARD.

For further information:

segreteria@fscire.it
tel. +39 051239532
www.fscire.it

Second edition
GIUSEPPE
ALBERIGO
AWARD
2019

GIUSEPPE ALBERIGO AWARD

2019 – Second edition

Giuseppe Alberigo (1927-2007) was an historian of great magnitude who was able to combine exceptional, exemplary rigour in research and a unique timeliness in the intellectual and theological debate of his time, thereby offering a precious contribution to sowing the seeds of criticism in generations of scholars internationally.

In memory of his fervour and wealth of critical studies, the Region of Emilia-Romagna and the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII, to which Alberigo dedicated 54 years of his life, announce the second edition of the Giuseppe Alberigo Award. The award consists in a sum of € 30,000, which will reward scholars engaged in a field of religious science, whether historical, exegetical, theological or other, without any form of limitation concerning the type of study. The sole requirement is that recipients must have achieved scientific excellence in their field of research.

1. PRESENTATION OF CANDIDACY

Candidacies must be presented by the authors themselves and/or third parties – scholars, centres, journals, editors, associations, academies or departments – provided that they be registered members of the European Academy of Religion (EuARe), by sending a paper or digital copy of their books published within the last three years, or works that have yet to be published, in any field of religious science. Every candidacy must be accompanied by a brief presentation of the particular aspects of the volume or paper, the curriculum vitae of its author(s) and the indication of the category of the Award applied for.

The award foresees two categories: one is for an established scholar (Senior), the other for an early career scholar under the age of 40 (Junior) who has written a monograph (whether published or not).

Volumes must be sent by June 30, 2019 to:
Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII,
via San Vitale, 114 – 40125 Bologna
or to: segreteria@fscire.it.

The envelope/e-mail must indicate “Alberigo Award 2019”. The postmark or the date of collection by courier will serve as proof of the date of submission of the proposal.

2. SELECTION PROCESS

- The list of all the works presented will be drawn up by July 20, 2019 and published on the websites www.fscire.it/index.php/it/ and www.europeanacademyofreligion.org/.
- The EuARe Executive Committee will express a first opinion on the works, and EuARe members will have the opportunity to send their indications in support of them by September 30, 2019.
- The award selection committee will thereafter identify the three works that have obtained most votes in each category. The list will be published on www.fscire.it and www.europeanacademyofreligion.org.
- By October 31, 2019, the members of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose will carry out one or more secret ballots until the absolute majority is reached in order to select three finalists and the winner in each category.

The results of the votes, which will take place in absolute secrecy, will be conveyed in a sealed envelope to the President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna. The Secretary of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII will immediately communicate it to the winners.

3. AWARD CONFERMENT

CATEGORY A: Senior
€ 20,000

CATEGORY B: Junior
€ 10,000

The money must be spent on research activity and a report of the expenses, or a programme for the research activity that will use the money, must be sent to the Fondazione per le scienze religiose within six months after receiving the award.

The other two finalists in each category will receive a plaque of appreciation.

The three finalists in each category will be invited to present a lecture at the annual convention of the European Academy of Religion in 2020, when the President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna or his delegate will confer the awards in a special ceremony.

The winners of the Alberigo Award 2018:

SENIOR: Heiner Bielefeldt, Nazila Ghanea, Michael Wiener
Freedom of Religion or Belief: An International Law Commentary
(Oxford University Press, 2016)

JUNIOR: Daniele Scialabba
Creation and Salvation (Mohr Siebeck, 2019)

The award selection committee:

The President of the Region of Emilia-Romagna or his delegate, the Secretary of the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII, the editor of the journal «Cristianesimo nella storia», the director of the Giuseppe Alberigo European School and the director of the Dossetti Library.

For further information:

segreteria@fscire.it
tel. +39 051239532
www.fscire.it

